Biotherapy Services partners with Cosmedic Pharmacy

Biotechnology research and development company Biotherapy Services has partnered with aesthetic supplier Cosmedic Pharmacy to supply the full range of systems and consumables for platelet rich plasma (PRP) on prescription.

Dr Janet Hadfield, director of Biotherapy Services, said, "We are delighted to have a UK pharmacy partner to help distribute the products we are seeing grow in the UK aesthetic market, our systems are extremely specialist and we are committed to build on supply with an emphasis on the safe efficacious use of PRP and excellent clinical support."

Iain Ashby, superintendent pharmacist of Cosmedic Pharmacy, said, "We are looking forward to working with Biotherapy Services who have become one of the premium suppliers not only into the aesthetics market but in the wound healing sector. We are launching our new website soon to make ordering even quicker and more convenient for customers."

Body contouring

Alliance is introduced to the UK

A new body contouring device by aesthetic manufacturer LPG Endermologie is now available in the UK.

Alliance is a mechanical massage system that aims to contour the body by eliminating localised fat deposits and firming the skin by stimulating it to naturally reactivate cell metabolism. According to Technical Laser Care, the exclusive UK distributor of Alliance, the system has undergone three years of research and there are more than 145 clinical studies available.

Nigel Matthews, UK sales manager for Technical Laser Care, said, "We are very excited to be distributing the LPG range of technologies as the focus is on the 'fight for natural beauty', and the technology is non-aggressive and non-invasive. We understand that a lot of customers want to look great and feel great but still want the holistic approach and the new technology from LPG is the way forward."

Matthews added, "From an aesthetic practitioner point of view, it's all about results, treatment costs and turn-around times. With the new technology from LPG, it allows the original treatment time of 40 minutes to be cut in half to 20 minute sessions, this obviously would mean more customers over the working day and more ROI."
